Tesco Unannounced Audit

The Robinson Services team have surpassed all expectations and have been praised by the client at Birdseye for the fantastic result of a Tesco unannounced audit.

The site maintained a 'Blue Grade' in the Tesco unannounced audit. Blue is the highest grade possible and is held by only a handful of food manufactures in Ireland.

Our client reached out to our team and thanked the whole team for their huge effort from the whole team.

Well done to the whole Robinson Services team at Birds Eye, your hard work has not gone unnoticed.

Health & Safety Corner

Eye Protection

There are lots of activities and processes which produce flying particles, sparks, dust, vapour, splashes and other events which can affect your eyesight or damage your eyes.

There are many types of eye/face protection which can eliminate these risks but it is important to select the correct type of the specific hazard and to ensure they fit correctly in order to prevent injury.

Eye protectors and face guards are marked to indicate the risk that they will protect you against, such as :

- (G) – Gas
- MM – Molten Metal
- HI – High Impact and Chemicals

Eye protectors can be sourced to fit over prescription glasses.

Do

- ✓ Visually inspect it prior to use
- ✓ Wear it properly to achieve a tight fit
- ✓ Check for any gaps which may put you at risk
- ✓ Keep it in good condition
- ✓ Report any loss or damage
- ✓ Store in a safe place
- ✓ Read risk Assessment prior to carrying out job to assess if eye protection should be worn for the task.

- ✗ Use damaged eye protection
- ✗ Forget to wear it

Clock's 'Fall' Back

Don't forget the clock's go back on Sunday 27th October 2019.

Why do the clock's go back?

It may feel like a long time since the blue skies of the summer, but the clock's going back is the end of the British Summer Time (BST). It also means that we get an extra hour in bed on Sunday morning, or an extra hour to be more productive.

Quote of the Month:

If you have the courage to begin, you have the courage to succeed.
